

Mandy Danzig

Love, light, and laughter are at the heart of Mandy Lynn's music. Her performances and compositions run wild through genres as if she were a bee in a field of wildflowers. Her years working as a licensed therapist and activist have left her with a deep dedication to social justice, leading her to write lyrics and melodies that one critic described as "songs that appeal to the heart and mind as well as the ear" (Greg Harness, Rootsworld Magazine).

Mandy plays almost anything with strings, and during her shows, she flows effortlessly from one instrument to another, weaving in and out of songs with her effervescent storytelling. Shows are rollicking romps through traditional and original music filled with joy, and an invitation for everyone to join the choir and sing along. Since the start of the COVID-19 pandemic, she has performed a live show every weekday morning on Facebook.
