

Sha'la

Sha'la is a singer-songwriter from Ferron, Utah. She grew up in a musical home, hearing everything from Willie Nelson and The Judds to Bette Midler and Barbra Streisand to Gladys Knight and Aretha Franklin to The Eagles and Counting Crows. Through all these diverse artists, she developed her own style that is pure Sha'la. Her voice is strong and soulful with a three and a half octave range.

Sha'la has performed throughout Utah and the western United States. She was the featured artist at the renowned Helper Arts Festival, has been the local, regional, and state finalist for the Colgate Country Showdown, and has been appearing at the Utah State Fair since she was 9 years old. Sha'la has recorded in Nashville and has recently released her first album.
